

Dear Night of the Nerds,

First off, we just wanted to say a big thank you for the presentation at Fontys. We were really inspired by your pitch on tackling fast fashion. As young people, we're seeing the world shift with global warming, and it's hard to ignore how much fast fashion plays into that. It's not just the planet that suffers workers who are barely paid to make these clothes are affected too.

That's why we believe this project is so important. Raising awareness around this issue is something we're really passionate about. At our studio, we focus on disruptive creativity, so challenging big corporations on their questionable ethics fits perfectly with what we stand for. If you'd like to see some of our work you can view this in the attachment.

Thanks again for your time. We'd love to hear back from you soon.

Kind Regards,
Coralie Erasmus
